Supporting the Social Emotional Learning Needs of SWDs

NCLD notes that students with learning and attention issues often experience feelings of failure, lack of acceptance among their peers and high levels of bullying...it is also reported that students with Other Health Impairments are 43% more likely than students without disabilities to experience high levels of being bullied. These indicators greatly impact the increase of anxiety, absenteeism, and drop-out. This session is tailored to help students with learning and attention issues (SWDs) by supporting their social and emotional learning needs. Strategies explored for SWDs will be understanding their strengths and needs, managing their emotions and persevere through challenges, think about others and empathize, and making responsible choices.

This professional development opportunity is provided by a grant for our regional school systems. Therefore, it is Open only to educators in the Griffin RESA region: (Butts, Fayette, Henry, Lamar, Pike, Newton, Griffin-Spalding, and Thomaston-Upson School Systems).
